HONGRONG, JULY 29TH, 1890.

THE public has now been placed in possession of the Hon. O. CHADWICK's final romendations concerning the drainage scheme. These are practically the same as those made by Mr. Coopen and endorsed by Chinese Customs, by Service friends. Mr. PRICE two years ago. Mr. Cooper proposed the adoption of what is call ed the separate system, that is, the separa- London for this port, left Singapore on the 27th tion of the dry weather flow and storm waters. The scheme was warmly opposed in certain quarters on the ground that the combined system, that is, the use of storm water channels as common sewers, was at once the most economical and the best suited to the topographical conditions of the in yesterday's issue the amount was inadvertenttown. The question was refurred home and Mr. CHADWICK was sent out to report upon which varies from Mr. Cooper's only in fore-topmest. details. the most essential difference, to quote M1. Chapwick's own words, being in the number and position of the outfalls. The Prava reclamation having been projected after the preparation of Mr. Cooper's scheme some alteration in this respect of course became necessary. In closing his final report Mr. CHADWICK speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Cooper, and says the documents submitted by himself may be fairly looked upon as joint reports, all the details having been discussed with Mr. Cooper. It must be highly satisfactory, to the ratehave not been all plain sailing in the Colony | business at all; so that about 55 per cent. of the since the administration of drainage matters fell into Mr. Coopen's hands, but evidently. the unpleasantnesses which have arisen must

This would doubtless be the most satisfactory means of financing the should be raised than with the control to be exercised over its expenditure and over the execution of the works. The intention of the Government, as we understand, is pracfically to place the whole of this $750,000 impossible to treat. at the disposal of Mr. Cooker and to allow The Japan Herald says :- One of the best Lim to execute the works as may seem well in his own eyes. Now without doubting for work all and economically we hold that this system of administration is inherently vicious. give rise to suspicions as regards the expendifure of the money, and to cause irritation in connection with the carrying out of the details of the work. Already complaints have been heard of the unnecessary length of time the streets have been kept opened up for the laying of the water mains in Queen's Road

East and Praya West, and this is the sort of annoyance we must expect to be subjected to for the next five years. . If the water and drainage department were placed under the Sanitary Board, as it cught to be, complaints would have some chance of being attended to and the officials would find it advantis replate with the best Machinery, embudying ageous to pay a little respect to the public convenience—a matter which the uncontrolled official mind is somewhat given to treat with contempt. The more we reflect on the action of the Sanitary Board in recommending Mr. Cooper as the Water Authority the more extraordinary it apshare of the responsibility rests, said in a letter which recently appeared in our columns, lose; silver belong all same copper; so fashion that the Committee when they made their recemmendation " never contemplated havwhenever practicable, are despatched by first that it was a matter of common knowledge that Mr. CHADWICK was only going to remain in the Colony for a few months Department. But if one man is to be in

The learned gentleman's lack of information is somewhat surprising, seeing and the full amount allowed for Packages and and that Mr. Cooper was to be the permanent head of the Water and Drainage sole charge of the large works now to be entered upon in connection with the water supply and drainage we do not know that any one could be much better fitted for the post from a professional point of view than Mr. Coores, whose only failing seems to be a want of tact and conciliation. It is not because Mr. Cooper is to be in charge that we object to the system, but because the system is bad in itself. The work is to be carried out with the ratepayers' money and for the rate payers, and the rate payers through plaintiff for leave to appeal against an order at 5.20 we kept the vessel away before it had great facilities afforded to them for trad such way is vouched for by Mr. Labouchere, their representatives ought to have some control over it. At the refreshment bar there seven of them drank ginger-hear; the other five drank water. The seven are alive and well; the five are dead. After various periods of struggle and suffering," one of the parents writes, they all succumb. ed to diphtheria . It is not needful to try to realize the anguish which must have been suffered by these five families to feel that some one has been committing the most criminal carelessness. There ought to be no exceptional difficulty about preserving the purity of the water supply to a recreation ground, and the Paddington \ cetry has a very heavy responsibil-

Very few of us have had any \notion how happy a place Heligoland has been auder British rule. It is something like heaven in this that there is no lawyer there. Marriage in Helizoand is as it on out to be a weighty matter. For reasons peculiar to the country, rushing into matrimony is not possible. There are so few houses, and the space available for new ones is so restricted, that an engaged couple are obliged to go on courting until a householder dies and a house is thus liberated. No gentleman must give a lady his arm unless and until he is betrothed to her. Once married, the young men about town in Heligoland are safe from judicial broken; there are no Irish in the island. But n Helicoland there is not always prison for "him what steals what isn't his'n." The islanders object to the expense of boarding prisoners. Consequently the jail is usually empty. Thrice happy Heligoland-no lawyer, no breach of promise, no going to jail! No wonder the Germans covet it.

A striking illustration of the truth of the axiom "Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good" s furnished by an incident which has just been brought under my notice. Few newspaper readers will have forgotten the appalling disyoung Englishman, by no means nuknown in the theatrical world of London, and brother of a man who thus gallantly behaved has had no reason to regret his temerity, as, in order to show her gratitude, the lady has adopted him as her son and settled something like £50,000 upon him the sole conditions attaching to this munificent action being that he should take her name and reside in Italy for a short period every year; terms with which he can hardly quarrel.

CONSTANCE CORBYN. In the seven years that had since passed stance Corbyn had grown up straight and tall Her figure was scarcely formed yet; far -less sc than those of her schoolmates of the same age Her manner was somewhat quiet, for although she seldom spoke of it now, she thought a great deal of her singular position, thus brought up in a foreign land and knowing nothing of her position save that her father seemed a wealthy man. She had never spoken to him on the subjech. At first she had been silent because Annette had told her that it might vex him t ask questions; of late years because she was too proud to broach the subject until he did so him self. She was a favourite at school, but a spite. ful tongue would occasionally bring; the hot blood to her face by some sneering remark as to the mystery which hung over her position. For her father she felt no love. Such affection as had been purchased in her childish days by presents had gradually died away, and a feel ing of angry resentment at his sileuce had taken itaplace. There was no sympathy whatever bethe bottom of it all, perhaps, was an unconscion championship of her dead mother. Annette had

If he scknowledges me he must acknowledge her, which he never had courage enough to do while the was alive."

A year had passed since then, and Aunette's predictions had been fulfilled. Constance Corbyn was not what is usually called a beauty, but her face; with its broad, smooth forehead soft earnest eyes, and tender mouth, strengthenone that most men would look at twice. Her figure was still slender, and over rather than under the middle height. There was a cortain air of pride in the carriage of the head and figure, an anconscious protest against those who had tried to humiliate her: One day at twelve o'clock-just-as breakfast was over, the servant came in and said that an English gentlemen wished to speak with M Duport. - She brought in a card. "Who is it. Victor "

We do not know as much as the name of her mother, nor-except from the fact that she is not mentioned in her daughter's letters-do we know of her death. I may tell you that the documents that will be required are, in the first place, proof of the marriage of Algernon Corbyn with this lady; and, in the second, proof that this young lady in your care is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corbyn born after their marriage." "The latter you can find for yourself," Madame Duport said. "At the Mairie there is the register of the birth of the child. It is stated there that she is the child of Mr. Corbyn and his wife Constance; and that statement is testified to by Mr. Corbyn himself. The following letter from the Hon. O. Chadwick to the Colonial Secretary was laid on the table of the Sanitary Board yesterday with a covering letter requesting the opinion of th Board thereon: Resident Engineer's Office, Hongkong, July 8th, 1890. Sir.-Referring to previous reports on a proposed sewerage system for the City of Victoria. bave the bonour to enbmit the following renormandations as to the course to be pursued with regard to house drainage.

2.—Unless the house drains are improved the money spent on street-sewers will, to a great extent, be wasted, as regards any improvement to the public health. Consequently every facility must be afforded to house-holders to improve off the dry weather flow of the sewage should be age, as it is formed, to the street sewers. Un their bouse-drainage. 3.-It is scarcely, an exaggeration to say that every house-drain, excepting those recently made under the supervision of the Sanitary Board's Surveyor, will require to be renewed. During the construction of the street-sewers th defective house-drains will be brought to light. It is to be hoped that the Sanitary Board will firmly exercise their legal rights and duties, and cause all drains that are in an insanitary condition to be renewed. Any drain that is leaky or which, owing to bad design or construction contains deposit is undoubtedly insanitary, and a source of danger to health.

4.- Until recently the custody and manage ment of the public sewers was vested in the Surveyor-General, the supervision of housedrains on the other hand was entrusted to the Sanitary Board. Ordinance No. 15 of 1889 will require amendment.

Paragraph 74 prescribes that private housedrains shall be connected with the Government main sewer, upon a permit being granted by the Burveyor General; and every house connection shall be carried out subject to conditions endorsed on such nermit. for ecouring their satisfactory construction.

5.—This paragraph is defective on two points: Firstly, - the construction of the new sewers is extrusted to an officer independent of the Sur veyor-General. This officer, obviously, ought to have the responsibility of supervising house connections, being answerable to the Government for the due restoration of the raid-surface Becondly, this course does not give sufficient power to the officers in charge of the sewers to direct the manner of making the connection. The practice has been to allow the house-holder to break into the street-sewer and make the connection how and where he pleased. Thi arrangement, though sufficiently inconvenient, was admissible in the case of the old masonry sewers. But with the new pipe-sewers it will a longer be admissible. Pipe-sewers cannot broken into at any point, connections must be made by means of proper junctions, provided and fixed during the countraction of the sewer. It will be the duty of the officer in charge of the construction of sewers to provide sufficient innotions for the purpose. 6 .- It is most desirable that the officer charge of sewers should be empowered to make the connection and lay the house-drain, if ne cessary, up to the trap, and to recover the cost of so doing from the house-holder in the man ner bereafter disoussed.

This arrangement will be advantageous be to the public and to the Government, because the work can be carried out concurrently with the sewer construction, in the case of old house

7.—Ordinance No. 21 of 1887, section 52, prevides that, if after the passing of this Ordinance any owner, by order of the Board, connects his building with a public sewer he shall not be quired to connect such building at his own expense with any other public sewer. Consequently, and with justice, any house-drain that has been constructed or renewed under the direction of the Board must be connected to the new sewers at the public expense. The operation, being carried out concurrently with construction, wi not be costly.

8.—On the other hand, if any old drain is re newed or relaid, under orders from the Sanitary Board, the owner has to make a proper connection or to bear the cost thereof. 9. - During the construction of the new sewers many house-drains will be intersected, and their condition will be seen. - The officer in charge of the sewers, who is also. the Board's Surveyor, should report to the Board freely through them. all drains found to be insanitary and the Board hould provide the necessary junction and might from the trap or connection. 10 .- The actual junction piece forming a part of the main sewer will, in any case, be provided and fixed at Government expense, and the cost will be included in the general cost of the 11.-It remains to be decided whether the owner should pay for the cost, of the trap with its appurtenances or whether if should provided and fixed at the public expense. this were done it would be a relief to the individual, but would not add seriously to the cost of the sewerage system. After all, every house-drain must be either connected or recou nected to the new sewers, so that the incidence of the cost would not be unfair. On the whol it appears to be expedient that both new connections with trans and appurtenances as well as re-connections should be made at the public expense. It should however be clearly established that the trap, when finished, becomes the property of the householder, and that he is responsible for its maintenance.

12.-I further recommend that the Sanitary Board should undertake the construction o house-drains at the request of the owners, and at their expense. The work should be carried out under the supervision of the Sanitary Surveyor who is also in charge of the main drainare. If this were done, the renewal of housedrains might, in many instances, by effected concurrently with the construction of sewers. and under common supervision. The work therefore would be well done with promptitude and economy. It would be practicable to take in hand a district and finish both house drains. and street sewers at once, and then relieve the do so, it will be necessary, in many cases: to nublic of the approvance of repeated opening of the streats.

13.—It will be practicable to arrange a fixed cale of charges for house-drain construction, so. that the owner could be given a very close estimate of the cost of the work before it is sommenced. To the nett cost of the work a percentage would be added to cover the cost of supervision and of the preparation of reco.

14.-It is also worthy of consideration whether owners should not be allowed to pay for the cost of house-drains by annual instalments extending over, say, seven years. Assuming the rate of interest to be 4 per cent. then meven annual payments at the rate of 164 percent, on the cost would be required to pay it off with interest.

15.—A Committee of the Sanitary Board is now engaged in the consideration of the draipage by-laws. I have the honour to recommend that this report be submitted to the said Committee for their consideration, so that they may, if they offt, introduce any modification late the b laws that may appear desirable for the purpose of carrying into effect any suggestion that I the following same have been spent or are to be Cooper. have made.—I have the honour to be, Sir, yours spent on works not included in this report :obedient servant.

OSBERT CHADWICK. To The Honourable W. M. DEANE, C.M.G., Acting Colonial Begretary.

THE HON. O. CHADWICK'S FINAL REPORT ON THE MAIN DRAIN-AGE SCHEME.

Mr. Chadwick's final report on the main $128,000. drainage scheme was laid on the table of the Sanitary Board on Friday, The first part of $172,000 the report deals with the drainage of the East ern district, while the latter part gives a summary of the recommendations made in that and previous reports as to the sewerage of the city

THE EASTERN DISTRICT. The Eastern-district is bounded on the west by Glenealy Nullah and on the east by Causeway Bay. The present frontage forms a bay with a wide strip of foreshore exposed at low tides which is very foul. It seems probable. Mr. Chadwick says, that the reclamation of this foreshore will in time become an imperative necessity. The present frontage for the whole length of the district presents no really satisfactory position estimated at $180,000. for a sewer outfall. Formerly I was bookkeeper to Mr. Linstead, I had no experience of auditing before going to the Audit Office. I had no written instructions for any guidance when I began auditing. It was my duty to audit resonue simply. I have auditgard to the Local orders, the reverse was the case. Sometimes the account would show an in debtedness to us of as much as $20,000. I checked both books by the counterfoils and application notes and found them correct. I never received any fresh instructions when postal notes were introduced. I knew nothing concerning posts notes until this matter was brought up. It never struck me when I saw postal notes on the collector's accounts that they had anything to do with the money order office. I had no instructions that they had. There was some question in the middle of last year as to the prisoner's accounts and he was called upon to make a statement. Mr. Rocha and myself examined the statement and found it correct. I have heard since that it has been examined and stated to be incorrect. I have again examined it and still believe it to be correct. I have never seen any account of remittances from Shanghai or the coast ports. How these moneys were dealt with there was nothing to show. When I went to the Post Caffice itself I audited Mr Rocha's books simply. I never andited any books kept by the Postmaster-General in his room. By his Lordship-I did not know that there were such things as postal notes. When I saw the words "postal notes" I did not know there was any difference between them and postal orders. The accounts in which there is no revenue are not undited at all. If I had known that the prisoner sold postal notes I would not have accepted a receipt for postal notes in discharge of an account for mousy orders.
